The Solid Waste Annual Report on the Web

SWARWeb

ESOH Information Technology Management Program

Description

The Solid Waste Annual Report on the Web, is a tool for tracking, analyzing and reporting information on the generation, recycling and disposal of non-hazardous solid waste at DOD installations.

ESOH Information Technology Management Program

Purpose

SWARWeb is designed to:

- Combine the tasks of data management, analysis and reporting into a single system.
- Allow multiple users to access and work with the same data.

ESOH Information Technology Management Program

History

- Originally developed by the Navy as a two-tiered system for collecting and reporting SW data
- First DOD version released in 1997
- Adopted by the Army in 1998-99
- Web version released Dec 2002

ESOH Information Technology Management Program

Overview

- Maintains data on SW disposal and recycling programs and transactions
- Provides calculations for DOD SW MOMs
- Promotes consistency among installations
- Provides auditable data
