WINTER ROUNDTABLE 2004

Global Military Strategy and Role of Precision Strike

Dear Colleague:

On behalf of the Precision Strike Association, it is my pleasure to invite you to our 2004 Winter Roundtable. As you can see, this year's theme "Global Military Strategy and Role of Precision Strike" sets the tone for a new year full of new challenges, demands, and continuing opportunities for government and industry collaboration on force application requirements and, in particular, precision engagement concepts. This cross-cutting strategy speaks to the on-going transformation of each service to yield a joint, fully integrated force that will meet the battlefield challenges of the future. We continue to see evidence of the growing importance of precision strike systems in transforming our national military strategy.

We have structured this outstanding roundtable to provide you with a deeper understanding of options that will define the debate over our national defense policies and strategy. We are very pleased to have assembled an exceptional roster of knowledgeable speakers who will provide you with an opportunity to participate in discussions on the toughest issues that confront both government and industry leaders. They will cover a broad spectrum of important subject matter supplemented by your thoughts and ideas.

I am also pleased to invite you to join us as we present this year's Precision Strike Association William J. Perry Award to the JDAM team, represented by The Boeing Company and the United States Air Force Joint Program Office. This award recognizes public or private sector leadership or technical achievements that result in significant contribution to precision strike systems. I think you will agree that, in light of the great operational advantages JDAM offered the combatant commanders in OEF and OIF, those who developed this weapons system are true visionaries and well deserving of this award.

This will be the 13th Winter Roundtable and one you will not want to miss.
Bring an associate with you!

Wayne Savage
Chairman of the Board

Honorable Donald H. Rumsfeld
