Major General John Wood, USA
Director, Joint Experimentation
Directorate (J-9)

Dear Colleague:

On behalf of the Precision Strike Association, I look forward to starting 2005 with our Winter Roundtable. As you can see with our theme, this year's roundtable will clearly launch us into a time of new challenges, demands and opportunities for precision strike systems. These impacts will cut across the Department of Defense, a new Congress, the White House and Industry. We will continue to see the growing importance of precision strike systems in shaping our national defense posture and influencing events around the world.

This outstanding roundtable is designed to allow you to gain insight into how the precision strike community should plan to address and meet the future key security challenges facing the United States. We are very pleased to have an impressive roster of speakers who will provide YOU with an opportunity to participate in discussions that reflect on the critical issues and hard choices that must clearly be made. As always our distinguished presenters will cover a broad spectrum of subjects that are important to the precision engagement community.

I am also very pleased to invite you to join us for the annual presentation of the Precision Strike Association William J. Perry Award. This award recognizes public or private sector leadership or technical achievements that result in significant contributions to precision strike systems. We are very pleased to announce that the award will recognize the members of our armed services who depend on and utilize our precision engagement systems. Please bring your friends and associates to share in this very important and timely forum.
