

Improving the Systems Engineering Workforce: Challenges of an Evolving Focus

Brian P. Gallagher

Senior Vice President, Operational Excellence

31 Oct, 2013

INFORMATION DEPLOYED. SOLUTIONS ADVANCED. MISSIONS ACCOMPLISHED.

CACI
EVER VIGILANT

Over 50 Years Helping Customers Meet National Priorities

- $3.7 billion annual revenue
- Fortune 1000 Largest Companies in America
- 12th in Top 100 Federal Prime IT Contractors – Washington Technology
- Approximately 15,000 employees, some 70% with security clearances
- Consistently recognized as a top employer of veterans, who make up approximately 20% of our workforce
- Corporate culture of ethics, integrity, and operational excellence
- Headquartered in Arlington, VA

Serving National Priorities

Business Systems

Cyberspace

Geospatial

Integrated Security Solutions

Investigation and Litigation Support

C4ISR

Enterprise IT

Healthcare

Intelligence

Logistics and Material Readiness

Systems Engineering Challenges

CACI has evolved over the years from a professional services and IT service provider to an Information Solutions and Services Prime

Challenges in moving from Services to Solutions:

- Building an engineering culture
- Establishing and using world-class engineering processes
- Training and growing engineering talent

Contact Information:

Brian Gallagher

Senior Vice President

Operational Excellence

CACI International

bgallagher@caci.com

INFORMATION DEPLOYED.
SOLUTIONS ADVANCED.
MISSIONS ACCOMPLISHED.

CACI

---

EVER VIGILANT